Madero's Cabinet Kept Busy Organizing New Government

JUAREZ, Mexico, May 18 .- Provisional President Francisco I. Madero, jr., today moved his capital from the municipal building to the custom house, the same structure in which the international handshake of President Taft and President Diaz was celebrated last year. It is a red brick edifice, much more commodious than the low frame municipal building used the last few days. The status quo in both peace and war prevailed today, little progress being United States within the past sixty days. made in either direction. Senors Braniff Others are leaving daily. It is known and Obregon, go-betweens for any peace negotiations that may be had, were expected to confer with Provisional President Madero before the day was over in an effort to lay before him a method for renewing the peace negotiations.

The officers of the provisional government have been so busy appointing officials and getting their governmental machinery organized that both peace and war parleys have been neglected. Approximately definite figures of the casualties of the three days' fighting in Juarez this week has been reached by a careful checking of the burials and of the hospitals, both here and in El Paso. by Provisional Gov. Abraham Gonzales. The insurrecto loss is reported at 15 killed and about 50 wounded. The feaeral loss is given at 100 killed and 187

Gen. Diaz Will Not Resign Until Order Is Made Sure

MEXICO CITY, May 13.-That Gen. Diaz will not leave the presidency while the country is in its present state of unrest is asserted by Finance Minister Jose stood ready to state in more explicit terms than those contained in his recent manifesto, if necessary, his attitude with reference to his retirement. The president, he said, had demanded to know from his opponents the terms in which they expect him to announce his willingness to resign, and is waiting a reply

The president's declaration of last Sunday was made in good faith and with the down the reins of government when he could do so without danger that anarchy or chaos might follow his action.

Minister Limantour declared that, following the issuance of the president's manifesto and its rejection by the revolutionists, a message was sent to Judge Carbajal, the government's peace representative, asking that Madero and his fole in exactly what terms they desired the announcement that the president was willing to resign be made. Gen. Diaz would explain, said Mr. Limantour, precisely what he meant by his expression "when his conscience tells him that he can do so without giving over the country to anarchy," and the explanation would show that no hidden meaning was intended.

This message as to the wording desired by the rebels should have been in Madero's hands for at least four days, but no reply has been returned. What is to be the next step to be taken by the government appears to hinge on the receipt or non-receipt of a further proposal from the revolutionists. Nothing further is to be begun by government officers in the direction of peace conferences.

Speculation as to Reyes.

What the return of former Gov. Reyes would mean to the country the minister could not state. His coming was opliminary exchanges preceding the actual peace negotiations as "injecting into the situation a new political element which tended to complicate it." posed by the revolutionists in the pre-

When Reyes left Mexico he was perhaps the most popular man in the republic. How he will be received by his countrymen after his long sojourn abroad has been the subject of wide speculation. That all those who urged him to run for the vice presidency, or even the presidency, in the last presidential campaign have not proved disloyal was shown last night when there was held a meeting of representatives of the various "Reyes clubs" in the capital. The public had almost forgotten the existence of these organizations, but it appears that the coming of Reyes has served to give them new life, and it may be that he will not be long in regaining his former following.

In Fear of Attack.

Actions of the government indicate that it fears an early attack upon the City of Mexico from some source not disclosed. The guard at Belam city prison, where there are more than 5,000 prisoners, of which forty are political, has been in-creased by 1,000 soldiers, who are stationed on the walls at points of van-Four pieces of light artillery have been

All cannons in the arsenal have been brought outside. Government officials preserve mysterious silence regarding the object of these preparations, except at the war office, where it is said that they are merely protective measures taken to insure against possible attack.

Should Mexico City be attacked, it is certain that a strong force of rebel sympathizers would rise against the authorities. It is estimated that 80 per cent of the citizens, particularly the middle and lower classes, are Maderists.

Merchants Given Guns.

Guns have been distributed to the principal business houses of the city, which, fearing attack from mobs, asked for arms. It is estimated that more than 2,000 guns and a corresponding amount of ammuni tion have been distributed.

Only 157 Soldiers Have Taken French Leave From the Troops on the Border.

Desertions of enlisted men in the maneuver division and other United States troops along the Mexican border are not augmenting to any appreciable extent the forces of the rebellion under Madero. BERLIN, May 12.-No matter how willing you are to admit that Germany's indisputably leading position in Europe is to a very large extent due to the genius and fervent patriotism of her statesmen and the sterclose your eyes to the fact that much is due also to luck. Germany has been in the power of Napoleon III.

Then, during a quarter of a century later, during which time Germany had developed all her military, naval and industrial power, Russia was made harmplains this as due to the enervating camp life in a hot climate that does not make the service attractive under the prospect of the continuance of such circumstances. Cut Off Its Subsidy.

Among other lines for the past fifty years there has been a prosperous, if somewhat easy-going Russian company and Commerce. It received a solid subcontract having expired, the financial to pay anything at all to that company, but to offer instead financial aid to the volunteer fleet on condition that its steamers ply between the Black sea ports. About $750,000 would be paid annually to the volunteer fleet, and, as it cannot reasonably be expected to make the Anatolian trips at once (i. e., to visit the Turkish ports between Batoum and Constantinople), these may be discontinued for a twelvemonth. That is Germany's opportunity, and she voye Vremya, the so-called Northern Steamship Company, founded by Russians and still assumed to belong to Russians, is in reality German.

"The Germans desire," this nationalist cabinet at which the Mexican tangle took organ writes, "to appropriate to themselves all the steamship communications of the near east and on the Black sea as they have succeeded in doing in the Mediterranean. For this purpose snatch at every possible means, and in order to triumph definitely they are waiting impatiently for the moment when,

Finland Must Pay.

A bill dealing with one aspect of Russo Finnish relations has been laid before the duma. It provides for the payment by the Finnish treasury of a certain sum -somewhat less than $5,000,000 a yearin lieu of military service. The committee that has framed the bill states in the preamble that it is but a portion of a larger scheme for distributing fairly the financial expenses entailed by the de-ferees of the empire upon Finns and Russians. Whatever theory one may hold respecting the degree of Finland's aloofness, says the preamble, it is indispu-table that if Finland is under the sway of the Russian empire it must in justice nearly every Kentucky farmhouse in its and equity contribute a fair share to the proper season will be hard to convince common fund for imperial protection.

In like manner a personal army exemption tax would also be harmful, because of the spirit of passive resistance now rampant in the principality. Therefore a contribution to be paid in by the Finnish treasury every year is the form preferred by the committee. There is no doubt that Genuine regret is felt here, as well as at Vienna, at the news of M. Sasanoff's continued illness, which may lead to his retirement. Sasanoff is looked upon as twenty inches.

Sasanoff conducted the foreign policy of Russia not in the interests of her political friends, but in her own interest. ed the imaginary interests of other powers. The logical result of M. Sasanoff's policy was the Potsdam interview. Russia entered into good relations with Germany, and the result is that England, terrorized by the noise of part of her population about the specter of a German invasion, will exchange naval information with Germany; that the Bagdad railroad question is to a large extent solved, and that the relations between Russia and Austria-Hungary have become most friendly. Europe is breathing again freely. That is the work of Sasanoff."

Recognition of King Peter. The visit of King Peter of Servia to Budapest to pay his respects to old Emperor Francis Joseph has been greeted all over the dual monarchy with expressions of the greatest satisfaction, not because the people of Austria hold any higher opinion of the man who ascended to a blood-stained throne without ever proving himself innocent in regard to the assassination of his predecessor, but because the visit is regarded as the disappearance of the last vestige of the Bosnian quarrel, which at one time threatened the peace of Europe, and as the final acknowledgment of the victory of the Austrian pol-

Rabbit Sausage.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal. Down in Georgia there is gastronomic joy over the discovery of a new table delicacy in the form of rabbit sausage. The benefactor to mankind who made the the action. discovery lives in Wilkes county, and there is more rejoicing in Wilkes over one Molly Hare made into mincemeat than over ninety and nine specimens of the same that have been fried, stewed, boiled or barbecued. The good news is gradually percolating into other parishes. The inventor of rabbit sausage is showing no disposition to bottle up his rare recipe, to peddle patent rights or to put in a claim for royalties. It was in Georgia that President Taft made his first acquaintance with possum, and now all the Georgians are saying that the proud, marsupial, nocturnal "bird" is not deserving of mention in the same breath with rabbit sausage. The President will have a new epicurean experience coming to him the next time he sets foot on Georgia soil.

Rabbit sausage looks good at long range. Those who like rabbit in the various forms in which it is wont to be served in Kentucky would need little persuasion to join in an assault upon Wilkes county's latest production in the line of high-class "eats." Those who are fortu-nate enough to recall the famous country sausage that once was to be had in that anything better ever was or ever will be discovered.

The Passion for Relics.

From the Philadelphia Record.

While the earlier reports of the finding of a letter from King Assur-Bani-Pal, of Assyria to Ahab, King of Israel, have been denied, it is a fact that among the ent groups yesterday afternoon: tablets recently dug up in the ruins of an ancient Samaritan palace are fragments relating to that interesting period of biblical history. News Briefs.

Two young white highwaymen entered a confectionery store in Richmond, Va., Thursday night, held up the proprietor in true western fashion and fied when he leaped through the window yelling lustily for help. Their booty consisted of $7.08. A resident of Lynchburg, Va., whose identity is not disclosed, has notified the Young Men's Christian Association of that city that he has provided a legacy of $2,500 m his will for the association. A Rockingham county (Va.) farmer makes the assertion that the modern fruit-spraying liquids are working toward the annihilation of the bumblebees and honey bees, and therefore to the extermination of the clover crop.
